KYOKUSUI-NO EN Photo: Kagoshima Prefectural Visit (PROVIDING POEMS IN FRONT OF STREAM)

(きょくすいのえん / 曲水の宴)

"Kyokusui no En" is originally a Chinese traditional event. It was held among nobles about AD 600 ~ 900 in Spring. People sit beside a little stream in which a sake cup is floating. Before the sake cup floats through in front of the person, he / she has to compose a poem. This annual event had started in Japan before the Nara era (about AD 700). Here in Iso garden, the 21st Shimazu lord made the kyokusui garden about 1736, and copied Chinese "Rantei".

You can see this traditional graceful event in Iso garden. People dressed like characters in "The Tales of Genji" sit along a little stream and compose poems. You would feel like you

Changes to the Basic Resident Registration Law ~Foreign residents will be subject to the Basic Resident Registration Law~

Quotation from Portal Site on Policies for Foreign Residents by Cabinet Office, Government of Japan http://www8.cao.go.jp/teiju-portal/eng/policy/index.html (English) http://www8.cao.go.jp/teiju-portal/port/index.html (Português) http://www8.cao.go.jp/teiju-portal/espa/index.html (Español)

With the soaring number of foreign nationals entering and residing in Japan each year, the establishment of a legal system by which municipalities can provide basic public services to both foreign and Japanese residents has become an urgent concern.

In order to address such concern, the law for partial amendments to the Basic Resident Registration Law was enacted at the 171st session of Diet and promulgated on July 15, 2009. This will make the Basic Resident Registration Law applicable to foreign residents and help improve their convenience and streamline municipalities' operations. This amendment will come into effect within three years after the promulgation date (exact date is to be determined by the Cabinet).

In addition, the bill to abolish the Alien Registration Act and revise *concerned immigration laws was passed and enacted at the 171st Diet session. This will replace a certificate of alien registration with a new form of identification, called residence ("zairyu") card which will be issued at the airport to foreign nationals with legal status of residence.

*The law Immigration Control and Refugee Recognition Act and the Special Act on the Immigration Control of, Inter Alia, Those who have Lost Japanese Nationality Pursuant to the Treaty of Peace with Japan

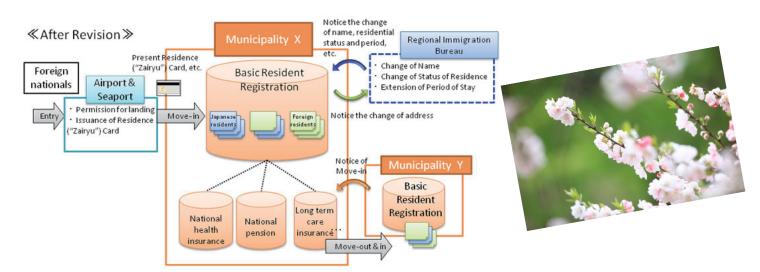

Foreign residents will be listed on the Basic Resident Registration

The Basic Resident Registration Law which currently does not apply to foreign nationals will be revised, making it applicable to foreign nationals. Consequently, foreign residents will be listed on the Basic Resident Registration along with Japanese residents. The Basic Resident Registration is the compiled residence records arranged by household.

More convenient for foreign residents

oThis revision enables municipalities to have a better grasp of the members of multinational households (family composed of Japanese and non-Japanese individuals), compared with the current two-tier system that list Japanese members and non-Japanese members of the same family in two separate registrations (Basic Resident Registration and Alien Registration). Municipalities will also be able to issue certified copies of the residence record ("juminhyo") listing all members of such household. oThe Basic Resident Registration is the basis for the provision of various public services. Therefore when a foreign resident moves to another municipality, he/she can continue receiving necessary services such as national health insurance just by completing the registration ("move-in notice") at the new municipal office. No extra application necessary. oJustice Ministry (Regional Immigration Bureau) and municipalities will be collaborating in exchanging personal information of foreign residents, which will lighten the work of foreign residents by avoiding overlapped notices to both of those organizations.

Jissinko Iroha-uta (日新公いろは歌) vol.25

Iroha-uta is originally a Japanese short poem. It is a perfect pangram, containing each character of the Japanese syllabary (hiragana) exactly once. Jissinko iroha-uta are 47 poems each of which begin, respectively, with the original iroha poems first syllabary.

They also became the spirit of Goju kyoiku (郷中教育: The Satsuma education system).

The twenty-fifth poem (starting with the letter "b"):

March 5 (Mon)

From this day to the Vernal Equinox Day is called "Keichitsu". The ground warms up, so hibernating insects come out around this time. The first thunder after the first day of spring by the old calender which is 4th of February is called "the thunder of taking insects out". It could be that the thunder wakes insects up with a big bang!

ホワイトデイ (White Day)

March 14 (Wed)

In Japan, men give women sweets in return for the Valentine's Day chocolates. In 1978, The Japan Candy Industrial Cooperative chose the 14th of March as "the day of presenting candies". White day has become a popular event since then. Now, people choose marshmallows and biscuits as well.

春の彼岸 (Haru-no higan) March 17 (Sat) - 23 (Fri)

It is the period of three days before and after the Vernal Equinox Day. It becomes warmer around higan. "Higan" means another world. It originally means spiritual enlightenment in Buddhism, but "higan" as a custom is traditionally Japanese. People go to their ancestor's graves and put rice cakes covered with bean jam, dumplings and other things on their household shrine.

春分の日 (Shunbun-no hi) March 20 (Tue)

The Vernal Equinox Day.
In Japan, this day is a holiday for "the day to praise nature and love creatures". It is also the middle day of the equinoctial week, in which people visit graves of ancestors and visit temples. They also put bota-mochi (rice cake covered with adzuki bean paste) in front of household shrines.

* The dates above depend on the lunar calendar, so they change every year.

The 3rd of March is the girl's festival. People decorate Hina dolls and invoke their daughter's good health and growth.

But, originally this event was not for girls. It originated in China. Around AD 300, An event "Joshi-setsu" was begun. "Joshi (Jomi)" means the day of the Snake (the sixth of the twelve signs of the Chinese zodiac) early in March. People used to think that devils tend to come inside of houses or their bodies when the seasons change, so they used to purify themselves at the waterside.

Japanese envoys to China during the Tang Dynasty brought this custom back to Japan. Japanese people had a custom of purifying themselves with water before that, and these two customs were joined.

Later, people started to hold "Kyokusui-no En (providing poems in front of a stream)" as an event to purify Joshi. They also started another custom which they remove their uncleanliness and bad luck into dolls made with paper, straw and grass (tachi-bina), and float them away.

This custom spread throughout the samurai class, and the Tokugawa shogunate established "Joshi-no Sekku (the seasonal festival of Joshi)" as one of five seasonal festivals. Then, this day became "The Girl's Festival" as opposed to "The Boy's Festival" which is held on the 5th of May.

They also used to make dolls to keep evil spirits away from their children.

The Girl's Festival is also called "Momo-no Sekku (a seasonal festival of peach blossom". This is not only the season of peach blossom, but peopel used to think that peach trees were holy trees which remove devils.

On the other hand, in the Heian period, the noble class girls used to play with paper dolls (Hina / Hiina asobi). "Hina" means small and cute things.

Later, people begun to make a pair of man and woman dolls to remove people's bad luck on them. Doll making skill had progressed, and gorgeous dolls started to be made. People started to decorate the dolls rather than float them away. Upper-class people started to give gorgeous hina dolls as one of a bride's household effects, and people liked the dolls in wedding costumes and wedding items.

Hina dolls became a symbol of the financial power of the family.

Thus people started to buy hina dolls to remove baby girl's bad luck, and to celebrate the girls' festival invoking girls good health and growth.
